- ☐ all parts.
- ☒ the parts relating to claims Nos. 1-13

Supplemental Box

In case the space in any of the preceding boxes is not sufficient.

Continuation of: Box IV

The international application does not comply with the requirements of unity of invention because it does not relate to an invention or to a group of inventions so linked as to form a general inventive concept. In coming to this conclusion, the International Searching Authority has found that there are three inventions:

Claim 1: A method of preparing a blended reagent in an automated biological reaction apparatus including: ascertaining a blended reagent is required, preparing the blended reagent before its application is required. It is considered that "ascertaining a blended reagent is required, preparing the blended reagent before its application is required" comprises a first "special technical feature".

Claim 8: A method scheduling application of reagent to a number of slides in an automated biological reaction apparatus including: grouping at least one group of slides together as a batch, ascertaining whether a blended reagent is to be applied to any slide within the batch, and scheduling the step of preparing the blended reagent before the step of applying the blended reagent to the slide. It is considered that "grouping at least one group of slides together as a batch, ascertaining whether a blended reagent is to be applied to any slide within the batch, and scheduling the step of preparing the blended reagent before the step of applying the blended reagent to the slide".

Claim 13: An automated biological reaction apparatus having a mixing vessel, reagent containers, a robotic arm having a dispenser for dispensing fluid from reagent containers to slides or mixing vials, a mixing vial and a controlling computer. It is considered that "a mixing vessel, reagent containers, a robotic arm having a dispenser for dispensing fluid from reagent containers to slides or mixing vials, a mixing vial and a controlling computer" comprises a third "special technical feature".

Claim 14: A mixing vial having a mount, a plurality of mixing chambers, and an identification means. It is considered that "a mixing vial having a mount, a plurality of mixing chambers, and an identification means" comprises a fourth "special technical feature".

Since the abovementioned groups of claims do not share any of the special technical features identified, a "technical relationship" among the inventions—as defined in PCT Rule 13.2—does not exist. Accordingly the international application does not relate to a single invention or to a single general inventive concept. It was however considered that the first and the second inventions could be searched together with little additional effort, no additional fee is being requested for the second invention.

As the search for the third and the fourth invention would have required more than a little additional search effort over that for the first and the second invention, additional search fees were warranted.

In response to the invitation to pay additional fees, the applicant paid an additional search fee in respect of claim 13. Consequently claim 14 was not subjected to an international search and therefore no international search report—and no written opinion of the international searching authority—has been established in respect of claim 14.

NOVELTY (N), INVENTIVE STEP (IS) CLAIMS 1-13

THORNE discloses that the transfer of liquids from reservoir 78 into the different receptacles facilitates the mixing of the sample liquid and any liquid reagents originally included in one or more receptacles of the reagent package to thereby form one or more reaction mixtures for subsequent analysis. In light of THORNE the claimed invention does not appear to be novel or to involve an inventive step.

The remaining documents do not disclose the step of blending reagents in an automated biological reaction apparatus. These documents disclose that the reagents are supplied either from the bulk containers or from reagent packs containing pre-packaged reagents. However if a particular reaction needs a blended reagent, a person skilled in the art would find it obvious to provide for the mixing step—and this would not involve overcoming any technical difficulties or require inventive ingenuity, as the step of preparing the blended reagent before it is required is technically trivial. Consequently claims 1-13 do not appear to involve an inventive step in light of any of the cited documents, or alternatively in light of the obvious combination of any of the cited documents with THORNE.

Box No. VI Certain documents cited

1. Certain published documents (Rule 70.10)

Application No. Patent No.	Publication date (day/month/year)	Filing date (day/month/year)	Priority date ( valid claim) (day/month/year)
WO 2004/001390 A1	31 December 2003	20 June 2003	20 June 2002

WO 2004/001390 A1 (VISION BIOSYSTEMS LIMITED) 31 December 2003. This application is related to the present application because the priority document for the present application (AU 2003901871) is one of the two priority documents for WO 2004/001390. However WO 2004/001390 also claims priority from AU PS3114 which has an earlier priority date. Page 15, line 18–page 16, line 24 describe essentially what is claimed in present claims 1–13. The priority claim of WO 2004/001390 in relation to AU PS3114 in relation to this disclosure has not been verified.

2. Non-written disclosures (Rule 70.9)

Box No. VIII Certain observations on the international application

The following observations on the clarity of the claims, description, and drawings or on the question whether the claims are fully supported by the description, are made:

1. The applicant is invited to insert into the specification references to the prior art cited in the international search report and to discuss the invention in relation to the prior art so as to put the invention into proper perspective.
2. The independent claims have been drafted in such a manner that it is not clear what inventive contribution these claims make over the prior art. The two-part claim format in the PCT Rules may be more appropriate.
3. The claims are not clear. For example claim 13 lists a number of technical features but does not define any interrelationship between these features. Claim 1 has the method step of "preparing the blended reagent before its application is required"—this appears to be stating the obvious. Certainly it would be of no use preparing the blended reagent after its application was required.
